Dear Dr Gray.

Dr Welling and I, had thought we were possessed of Mrs Baird's full wishes, which were presented to the Regents, and supposed to be embodied in their action, but, it was subsequently seen that she greatly preferred that the actual interment should be immediate and private, and that the resolution of the Regents should be taken as applying to a later and distinct ceremony.

So, in accordance with her wish, we have this morning attended Prof Baird's remains to the grave. Only the family and a very few personal friends were present;—among the latter the Chief Justice, and Senators Morrill & Edmunds. I am glad for Mrs. Band's sake, it is over.

Will you please present my respectful regards to Mrs. Jones and say how much I hope she will be able to accompany you if you come, as we trust you will, in January?

Yours most truly
D. P. Langley
